CHOOSING A CAREER

Choosing a career in an individual social matter. It raises a lot of questions and psychological concerns. In choosing a career you should consider what you love doing, i.e. your hobbies. Find the professions that is much related to your hobbies, choose any one you prefer, if you prefer many or all of them, choose the umbrella profession for one you prefer. For example, you may love biology, physics, and chemistry. You may not be able to study all of these in detail, so you could pick studying general science in an education college.